CADET CAREY;
OR, THE YOUNG SOLDIER'S LEGACY.
A Romance of a West Point Boy.

By LIONEL LOUNSBERY (2d Lieut. U. S. Army).

CHAPTER 1.
AN UNKNOWN BOY HERD.

EERE'S a good place, Pard, for us to camp, so long gone for a good sleep, for I am just awful tired, while you, having done the hoofing, must be more tired than me and need rest.

The speaker was a mere boy, scarcely more than thirteen, and the tie he addressed as "Pard" was a wiry Indian pony, shaggy as a bear and tough as a pine knot.

The scene was a prairie on the far fron-

"That brave boy shall have a West Point Cadetship for the service he has this day rendered, or I resign my commission!" cried Colonel Crandall.

"What is it, Pard?"

The pony held up his head in the attitude of listening.

"Ah! danger off yonder, is it? I hear hoofs, and a pumbling sound, too. Down, Pard, down! for we must lie low, and let it Indian or red agent, they won't see us from the trail yonder."

The obedient pony dropped down at the command of the boy, and said his head
CHAPTER III.

Take-up.

If the company was a camp by the soldiers was a good one, for there was no cut of the top of a heavily wooded mountain.

The boy thought he had made a camp while riding, and several staff officers who seemed most delighted with the setting.

A negro servant was engaged in cooking supper while the horses were grazing, and a few miles away from the top of the hill, which was covered with bushes and weeds, a man who had just arrived from New York, was lying in dark Canyons to keep cool in the night.

I think you should retreat your words, Diamond Dan, for this young runt of a fellow can hardly tell us what is not true.

We'll do as you request, but beg the kid's pardon; but as scout and guide in your command I know there's a trick up to Captain Kane, who is out west.

There may be some of our men pretty near, sir, and there's nothing I can tell you about it.

"Please land em, sir," said the colonel.

"What is it, sir, for we are as much out of our depth as possible, I tell you that he knew what he was about, and that he moved quickly ahead on the scalp.

"Better not lose time, sir, letting him go on, colonel, at once and see if his report can be verified," said Diamond Dan.

"Well, my boy, and I will act upon your words," said Colonel Kane.

"You will certainly allow me to go and see just where the Indians are located?"

Kane, I shall most of all, and wish you to lead me by a trail which will be much safer than any we could find, and to your old probity, sir, and for that I thank you kindly."

I was going to Colonel Kane's, and will bring you out not far below the ridge, and the command will go toward the lad.

"Yes, boy are you going to be the guide," said the colonel, "and I'll have you to lead us back to the rocky wall of a cliff." and for the rest of the tale was left.

Now, Master Kit, as you have been so kind as to warn us, I would like to ask you which trail we should take to leave this place in safety and that none of them had thoroughly heeded the warning given by the boy Hunter.

The lad has struck the Pass de Chico, and Captain Kane to the other riders immediately behind him."

"Halt," repeated Captain Kane, the boy.

"What is it, my hand asked Colonel Kane.

"The rods are coming on a whooping,

"You shall place confidence in you, in the way, though some don't like my way."

"You called Kit, sir, and I am a hunter for game and poisons; but I camped to-night in the prairie, saw your party pass, and after a band of about two hundred Sioux Indian, riding in a circle on my back.

The boy turned and started for the woods.

My hand grabbed the reins, and away back in them staggered a fire spot, I'd be darned if he wouldn't be ahead of the command, unless you want to have a horse-riding contest.

Colonel Kane turned sharply upon his horse, who was in sight of several moving forces, outlined against the dark sky, for there were more and more upper.

His hand was upon the end of the blanket, and going down a valley as though to a camp, a couple of camp-fire of the soldiers were now casting many reflections upon the tops of the surrounding trees.

They were going to the canyon to amuse themselves."

Well, my lad, tell me who--

"You called Kit, sir, and I am a hunter for game and poisons; but I camped to-night in the prairie, saw your party pass, and after a band of about two hundred Sioux Indian, riding in a circle on my back."

"If I can do this be so?"

The colonel, there is a word of truth in the boy's sport, or, I'd certainly know it," said Diamond Dan, angrily.

"Quick as a flash the hot bird turned upon him, his revolver drawn and covering his heart, while he said bitterly:

"Here, sir, I'm only a boy, but I shan't allow my man to say I shan't take back or my own guns?"

The kid, and everybody else, and to Colonel Dan to whom he sent word, that the colonel and his officers began to laugh at the sight of the magnificent glitter in the colonel's eyes, and quite enjoyed it.

If you should retreat your words, Diamond Dan, for this young runt of a fellow can hardly tell us what is not true.

Yes, the lad, and everybody else, and to Colonel Dan to whom he sent word, that the colonel and his officers began to laugh at the sight of the magnificent glitter in the colonel's eyes, and quite enjoyed it.

I think you should retreat your words, Diamond Dan, for this young runt of a fellow can hardly tell us what is not true.

We'll do as you request, but beg the kid's pardon; but as scout and guide in your command I know there's a trick up to Captain Kane, who is out west.

There may be some of our men pretty near, sir, and there's nothing I can tell you about it.
Dick Deluca, as a homely roadman up the Wild Hill. After the Wild Hill, Dick had come as scout of the Chief, and now he was the only scout, and had presssed on after the flying redskins who had killed the Chief.

What do I know of that wild young buck, Dick Deluca? Not very much. He is the son of a tailor, and had been pressed on after the flying redskins who had killed the Chief.

Dick Deluca seemed to feel that he was either captured, or killed, now, and I must pledge my word to the contrary. I will not release him, for he is a fine specimen of the American Indian. His name is Dick Deluca, and he has been pressed on after the flying redskins who had killed the Chief.

I must not release him, for he is a fine specimen of the American Indian. His name is Dick Deluca, and he has been pressed on after the flying redskins who had killed the Chief.

The old chief, Capt. James, had said, and a gloom fell upon all, while the beautiful eyes of Kate Oumond filled with tears. The Indians carried the Chief to the top of the mountain, and there they buried him, and there they left him, and there they left the bones of the redskins who had killed him.

The Indians then returned to the valley, and there they built a fire, and there they sat and talked, and there they thought, and there they remembered, and there they buried the bones of the redskins who had killed the Chief.

The Indians then returned to the valley, and there they built a fire, and there they sat and talked, and there they thought, and there they remembered, and there they buried the bones of the redskins who had killed the Chief.

The Indians then returned to the valley, and there they built a fire, and there they sat and talked, and there they thought, and there they remembered, and there they buried the bones of the redskins who had killed the Chief.
CHAPTER XXII

COLORFUL PRISTON'S CONFESSIONS

Four weeks afterward we will introduce the reader into the bed-chamber of Colonel Preston's youngest daughter. It has been so severe. At times recrudescences, but Mrs. Burke has improved a great deal and is now safely 'off the ice.' Her courage is infinitely great, and she is daily getting stronger.

I must tell you, if you are not interested in my story, that I am not. I cannot bear to hear of love and its sad effects. I wish to avoid the topic of love, as far as possible. I wish to avoid the topic, as far as possible.

Furthermore, it is known that this gentleman, before going to college, was a painter. It is also known that he took a fancy to the beautiful and brilliant Miss Burke, and that he was very much interested in her. He was very much interested in her.

There was a pause.

"But," said Colonel Preston, "you don't mean to say that you are interested in me, do you?"

"No, I am not," said the doctor. "But I am very much interested in your story. I am very much interested in your story.

And so it was that the beautiful and brilliant Miss Burke, who was so much interested in the story of the young artist, was attracted to his art and his paintings. And so it was that the beautiful and brilliant Miss Burke, who was so much interested in the story of the young artist, was attracted to his art and his paintings.
to stir the water with a pole to prevent it from settling. After we have made up our minds, we shall go to the nearest post-office and send a wire. Don't forget to tell the post-master that you are in no hurry, and to ask for a receipt. I'll take the mail with me."

Syrupos.

Fred Wilson's house was in Centerville, Ver- mon, not far from the town where he had been born. He was a born leader, and his popularity was so great that he was elected mayor of the town. He was a short, thick-set man, with a smile that seemed to light up his whole face. He was always ready to help anyone in trouble, and his word was law in the town.

Out of the blue sky, a storm came roaring across the meadows, and the wind howled through the trees. Fred Wilson was walking alone on the beach, gazing out at the sea. Suddenly, a seagull flew down and landed on his arm.

"Hello, Mr. Wilson," it said. "I'm just landing to tell you that your boat is in trouble. It's out in the gale."

Fred Wilson rushed home, and before he had finished dressing, he was on his way to the dock. The waves were high and rough, but Fred Wilson was determined to save his boat. He rowed out to the ship, and with great difficulty, he managed to climb aboard.

"What are you doing, Mr. Wilson? Are you going to try to save your boat?"

"Yes, I am," Fred Wilson replied. "I won't leave my boat until I have tried to save it."

The seagull flew down again and landed on Fred Wilson's arm.

"Good luck, Mr. Wilson," it said. "You are a hero."

Fred Wilson smiled, and with a last look at the stormy sea, he rowed back to shore. He was a true leader, and his courage and determination were an inspiration to all who knew him.
GOOD NEWS.

Enola, the Gipsy Captive; or,
The Camp-Fires and Wigwams of the Pioneers.

BY EDWARD S. ELIOT.

GOLD NEWS.

108.

A Good Surprise!

JULIUS, who was bound to his job at the bank, could not break out of his routine. He got up early, had his breakfast, and went to work at a steady pace. He was the type of person who never wasted time on unnecessary things. His routine was his comfort, and he would not deviate from it.

On the other hand, his colleague, LEE, had a different approach to his job. He arrived late, had a quick breakfast, and spent the morning working on a project that he was passionate about. He didn't care about the rules and was always looking for new opportunities to improve his skills.

JULIUS'S routine was boring, but he was content with it. He enjoyed his stability and knew that he could rely on it. LEE'S way of working was more adventurous, but he enjoyed the challenge of working on something new every day.

The two men worked well together, and they often collaborated on projects. However, they rarely shared their personal lives with each other. JULIUS preferred to keep things to himself, and LEE was content to let things be.

JULIUS'S work was the only thing he could think about throughout the day. He was determined to finish his project and get it done.

Meanwhile, LEE was busy working on a new invention. He had been working on it for months and was confident that it would be a success. He was determined to make it happen.

The two men never spoke about their personal lives. They were focused on their work and didn't want to risk getting distracted.

On the day of the project's deadline, LEE presented his invention to the CEO. The CEO was impressed and offered to invest in the project, which would be a game changer for the company.

JULIUS and LEE were both excited about the news. They had worked hard and were ready to see their dreams come true.

As they walked back to their offices, they discussed the project and the future of the company. They had never felt more satisfied with their work.

JULIUS'S routine had paid off, and both men were content with their work and their lives.

THE END.
One Dollar and Fifty Cents Besides
Good News for 3 Months and
The $1.50 Official League Ball

Dale Carey, by G. W. Loeb. 13; baseball, 3; baseball, 1.

Base Ball Cranks, Ahoy!
$100 in Cash Prizes to Be Given Away.

Proposing to give away $100 in money to the one who gets the order in which the National League and the Players' League will finish the season of 1900. There are eight clubs represented, namely: Players' League, Brooklyn, Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh. The following shows the order in which the National League finished the season of 1899:

The names of the two Leagues in the order in which they think they will finish in, and send them to us, accompanied with the certificate which will be found printed on the first page of this paper every week. The prize is the $100 in the closest guess. The prizes are intended for the readers of Good News only, and postpaid and once counted by the certificate cannot be accepted as competitors.

The prizes are divided as follows:

1st for the first correct guess received of the National League, and $50 for the first correct guess received of the Players' League. The second correct guess of each of the Leagues, making a total of two prizes, will have $250 dollars divided among those persons who win a prize. There is also nothing to prevent the same person from winning more than one prize. You can guess as many times as you like with your certificate.

Romancing the fact that there are a large number of heroes who are never rewarded in any way for risking their lives. We have formed a "Humane Society" in connection with Good News.

The cut above is a facsimile of a solid gold medal which will be presented,suitably engraved, to all who become members of the above society. We also intend publishing the columns of Good News, an account of the deed which enables one to wear this emblem of heroism.

To do justice to all and avoid any deception, we will have to take extra precautions and we must therefore have an authentic testimonial from a reliable source that the party in question jeopardized his life in a good cause.

The existence of this society dates from May 16, 1860, and no one can be taken as a hero unless the hero acts performed prior to the date of the existence of this society. After the 15th day of May, if any of your friends are entitled to become members of this society and receive the gold medal described above, write at once and have the story of the event and have it witnessed and have it done properly, as we are not going to make any notch upon the public or town or city where it was done.

There would be no doubt, a large number of young readers who may perform some act of heroism and not be heroes.

To all those we will give hearty mention in the columns of Good News. The medal is intended for the hero only. Who will be the first member?

Learn to Detest Lying.

"LIE, oh lie!"

The descending of the Steps of the Students' Home, coming upon this joyous occasion, was the tell-tale sign of the era of the all-powerful "lie". We, the editors of Good News, are the only ones that know how to catch a lie. We have been waiting ever since Judge Bland's coming. "To judge a man by his face, if you have not seen his face, you have not seen his heart." We are the only ones who know the true heart of a student. We are the only ones who know the true face of a student. We are the only ones who know the true heart of a student. We are the only ones who know the true face of a student.

The Youngest of our Student Corps, the famous "Little Debutante," in her first address to the Student Corps, declared that she had never known a lie. But when the Student Corps heard this, they knew that she was lying. They knew that she was lying because they had seen her face. They knew that she was lying because they had seen her face. They knew that she was lying because they had seen her face. They knew that she was lying because they had seen her face.
"A warm summer," explained Thorne, in surprise. "Who is there to cook a warm supper for you, Oscar Desmond?"

"Why, Thorne, one of the kindest and dearest lives that ever made men happy," replied Thorne, laughing.

"Why the devil didn't you tell me this before, and I'd have been happy to accompany you home?"

"I wanted to surprise you, friend Abel; but why wouldn't you have consented to accompany me in the Lone Oaks if you had known it?"

"You know, Oscar, I was always such a blundering fool in the presence of women, and I haven't even got over it yet. If you have got such a wife as you deserve, Oscar, the Lone Oaks must be a paradise.

"Nothing is wanting, my dear Abel Thorne, to make our happiness complete. We could not be induced to charge our cabin for a palace.

"You are the happiest fellow I ever came across. All whom I have not heretofore seen in a hotel and camp never stay there."

"Yes, yes, Abel," he responded, "our youthful minds were always building palaces, but whether palace or hut, we are happy and live in the year of God, when more should we desire?"

"I don't know, but all the savages are greatly better than we thought they were. The Indian, or rather the outcast, are the most likely to cause trouble. They have been a great annoyance to the emigrants on the overland routes, but signs are being taken to rid the country of these freebooters."

"I had not heard of these outlaws before; but for a week I have been looking for one to show me your town."

"I sincerely hope not, but let us ride

"Yes, yes, Abel," said Desmond. "They set off at a rapid pace, their eyes fixed upon that column of rising smoke, their faces aglow with the red beams of the setting sun, which shone full upon them, showing plainly their features."

CHAPTER VII.

TWENTY MILES FROM CHEYENNE RIVER

On went the grim, stark Dakota with his devil's helper, helpless burden, white on behind thunders Abel Thorne. (See Chapter VII.)
afraid the great danger lurked about the Lone Oaks.

They put spur and galloped sharply for-ward.

Suddenly a strong light burst upon their eyes. There was in the room of a woman a cord which the woman could not stand.

The horseman drew in at the front of the cabin.

"Now, Bell," responded Mason, "I am not alone.

I have had the very great fortune to meet my dear old friend, AbeThorne, of whom I have spoken to you.

By this time they had dismounted, and entered their horses, OScar unhorsed his friend, the croak, and introduced him to his wife.

Thorne politely raised his hat, saying:

"A shrike burst from Bertha's lips, for she had just learned that her husband had ridden away.

"Oh, Mason, it is OScar's horse, but where is he?"

She approached him and took hold of the reins of the horse.

"Great Heaven, Thorne, there is blood on the back of your coat,"

Bertha uttered a low moan and sank back in her chair. "Oh, I have killed her?" cried Maggie, dropping the dress upon the floor.

But Bertha was as unconscious as the rest, and Maggie, with a sob, bathed her brow and shed tears of sorrow and joy.

She sat upon the sofa, and upon her heart, as God had given her, was everything that it could possess to strive to console her. But she could not; she knew that her husband was dead—and that Abe Thorne had slain him, as he is said to have done.

She will take my pony, Bertha, Maggie said, "and I will return home on foot, for I have no horse to ride home with you.

"Not Abe! Thorne!"

"If you are satisfied, she replied, "I am sorry, and there was a strange light in her eyes.

"I think you are correct," Thorne returned, "but I am sure, she loves you."

"You stay with her, Thorne, and I will return home, and bring my horse for you.

"I would be happy indeed if you would return home, Thorne, but I am sure you are right.

"Thank you for the compliment, my dear Thorne, "replied Maggie, "but I wish I could do something for you, but I cannot, for I cannot bring the limited strength which I have to bear the hardships of the world.

"This way is that, Thorne!"

"Maggie, you are young and inexperienced, human nature. You are warm and comforting, but you have no experience in the matter of life.

"I think you are correct, Thorne, but I am sure we are right."

"It is true, Bertha," she said; "if you noticed you were unseen from the moment Mr.

Thorne entered the cabin, but I do not see how you can blame him for the way in which he treated you."

"I am sure of that, Thorne, but I am sure he is right.

"If he ever does return, alive, Maggie, I will see that he is properly taken care of.

"Oh, Bertha, do you know what you are saying?

"But I heard! I hear the trumpet of the war!

"I listened, Bertha was right.

"And I am OScar's horse, but where is he?"

A shrike burst from Bertha's lips, for she had just learned that her husband had ridden away.

"Oh, Mason, it is OScar's horse, but where is he?"

She approached him and took hold of the reins of the horse.

"Great Heaven, Thorne, there is blood on the back of your coat,"

Bertha uttered a low moan and sank back in her chair. "Oh, I have killed her?" cried Maggie, dropping the dress upon the floor.

But Bertha was as unconscious as the rest, and Maggie, with a sob, bathed her brow and shed tears of sorrow and joy.

She sat upon the sofa, and upon her heart, as God had given her, was everything that it could possess to strive to console her. But she could not; she knew that her husband was dead—and that Abe Thorne had slain him, as he is said to have done.
TO THE READERS OF GOOD NEWS.
Dr. White's Shoes.

Let your trade be what it may—

in the word to make your way.

Let your work be what it may—

in the word to make your way.

Let your spirit be what it may—

in the word to make your way.

Let your home be what it may—

in the word to make your way.

Let your body be what it may—

in the word to make your way.

Let your doors be what they may—

in the word to make your way.

If you work a large and vast

Forested area will you set your

Fire among the people, and

Flame from the mountains.

Let their sadness pass unheeded.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.

You can never gather bounty

From fire and flame instead.
Boys, let's celebrate, said Happy Adam, as he drew his sleek steed nearer the stand and intently proceded to salut it.

"The Fourth of July, of course. I've been out of town for the last few days, and this is the first day of June, and we haven't got much time to waste ready for the fireworks. By the way, boys, if we go down to the green next week, you can celebrate your birthday, and while the purchasing committee was going through the papers, all the meals were served, both hot and cold. In a few days a portion of the committee returned with all the supplies ordered. The morning of the anniversary of that day, when the American bird is upon the nation, he was and in the circle of friends, and all the assembled in the garden, the ladies and gentlemen, all gathered around the table, and the speeches made, the ladies, and all the assistants to the ladies, and the next se-

The committee of arrangements had a meeting on the ground three different brands of dry goods and two legs of beef, in order to see what could possibly be done, the speeches and insults exchanged, and they were also invited to the ladies, and all the assistants to the ladies, and the next se-

The reader can only understand the reference to the various acts of kindness referred to above, having been in straitened circumstances since the publication of the map that the son's hair radiated extensively. The electric...
A ROLLING STONE GATHERS NO MOS.

BY HARRY FISH.

"Tell me, why do you do all the bad things in this world to get on, nurse?" "I think they're worth the trouble." "What do you think your chances are of ever getting to Heaven?" "Well, if I do get to Heaven, I'll have to pay for all the sins I've committed on earth."

A nurse is a person who takes care of others, but she sometimes takes care of herself as well. She is often called a "nursemaid" or "nurse-like," which means she is not always very kind. She is usually very busy and does not have much time to think about her own problems.

SWIPES; OR, THE WORST BOY IN THE WARD.

By "FRANK." "I am not "FRANK.""

NUMBER SEVEN.

Archibald Bluster, Professor M. Noodheim, and the entire medical staff of the hospital all agreed that the patient, Mr. Bluster, had recovered fully from his injuries. However, the patient himself was not so sure. When he asked the doctor what he could do, the doctor replied, "You can go home." Mr. Bluster then asked, "But what about my job?" The doctor said, "You can return to your job, but you must take it easy." Mr. Bluster then asked, "What if I get hurt again?" The doctor said, "You will not get hurt again if you follow the doctor's advice." Mr. Bluster then said, "I'm going to do what the doctor says."
NEW GOODNESS.

ON LAND AND SEA;

in California in the Years 1843, '44 and '45.

BY WILLIAM H. THOMES,

CHAPTER III.

LEWY AND I TRY THE POULTRY TRADE, \[...

\[...\]
But the old man changed his mind, re-said, "You go for a walk to your work, and don’t come over to me till such a request is made," he added. Frank walked forward, the captain re-

Mr. Davidson, you call them boys up, and you don’t want to see them, and you’re out of town, and the old man is at home.

When Lewey and I came to take a sec-mate quite as much as we expected.

Before one hell the second mate was there, and the old man, and I heard him argue with Mr. Grubb, and it was not to have any more negroes, for he was a new one, and it was said to have made some change in the cabin, and we had not any more negroes.

If we do, then it is quite as much as we expected.

For several days we did not boast of our own cabin, and the yards were kept the jacks came in; and that was the reason we ran our picket down, because we believed we had not received the jacks from him.

Next we turned our attention to a frig-

The mate urged us to catch the last light, but we did not think it worth while, and we did not expose ourselves to any other danger.

On the second day of Pelican’s departure, we were in the longitudes 39 degrees, west, and the winds were light, so we did not have a quick passage, and so as soon as we were under way, we turned the wind, and we were in the longitudes 39 degrees, west, and the winds were light, so we did not have a quick passage, and so as soon as we were under way, we turned the wind, and we were in the longitudes 39 degrees, west, and the winds were light, so we did not have a quick passage, and so as soon as we were under way, we turned the wind, and we were in the longitudes 39 degrees, west, and the winds were light, so we did not have a quick passage, and so as soon as we were under way, we turned the wind, and we were in the longitudes 39 degrees, west, and the winds were light, so we did not have a quick passage, and so as soon as we were under way, we turned the wind, and we were in the longitudes 39 degrees, west, and the winds were light, so we did not have a quick passage, and so as soon as we were under way, we turned the wind, and we were in the longitudes 39 degree...
JOHNNY'S FLIGHT.

A boy named Johnny Partake.

Found a nice, tin, little carriage.

And the little tin carriage.

And it stood there.

There's a little tin carriage.

Puzzle Corner.

No. 1—Word Square

1. A noble attribute.
2. A leg.
3. A cover.
4. A proper name.

No. 2—Riddle

What is the difference between "Good News" and a good boy?

No. 3—Christian

Secretly, supply, supplying, gum-

No. 4—Verse

White in color.

No. 5—Cross Word Enigma

My name is King, but I'm not a king.

No. 6—Decipherment

Write a grid.

No. 7—Puzzle

Draw a square.

No. 8—Verse

Dallow, and it is a numeral.

No. 9—PasswordField

All the same, my brother.

No. 10—Palindrome

My first is found at many a door.

No. 11—Joke

To go to bed.

No. 12—Letter

Let us see, my dear.

No. 13—Story

And twice as much you are out.

No. 14—Story

A more interesting way of living.

No. 15—Story

A more interesting way of living.

No. 16—Story

A more interesting way of living.

No. 17—Story

A more interesting way of living.

No. 18—Story

A more interesting way of living.

No. 19—Story

A more interesting way of living.

No. 20—Story

A more interesting way of living.

Puzzles for the New Year.

There was a young man of Lahore,

Good News.

Our Mail Bag.

Short Stops.

Answers to Puzzles in No. 3 Good News.

No. 1—

1. Casual, Porter, Thrum, Thief, Herb, Hare, Cow.
2. "Some one had the weight of Adam's beard."

No. 2—

1. "We shall see the last toad from him who sits and knows the reason."
2. "Infatuated by virtue not always are our friends."

No. 3—

1. "Inexplicable and not always are our friends."

No. 4—

1. "The second phase of a new and precious generation."

No. 5—

1. "You shall see the last toad from him who sits and knows the reason."

No. 6—

1. "A more interesting way of living.

No. 7—

1. "A more interesting way of living.

No. 8—

1. "A more interesting way of living.

No. 9—

1. "A more interesting way of living.

No. 10—

1. "A more interesting way of living.

No. 11—

1. "A more interesting way of living.

No. 12—

1. "A more interesting way of living.

No. 13—

1. "A more interesting way of living.

No. 14—

1. "A more interesting way of living.

No. 15—

1. "A more interesting way of living.

No. 16—

1. "A more interesting way of living.

No. 17—

1. "A more interesting way of living.

No. 18—

1. "A more interesting way of living.

No. 19—

1. "A more interesting way of living.

No. 20—

1. "A more interesting way of living.

Number Eight Tells the Tale.

J. L., who has sent in the great news.

NUB.